Recommitment Letter

Start this on Day 24. Exchange it on Day 30. Write in your own words – the prompts are a place to start, not a form to fill out perfectly.

Before you exchange letters: read your own back once, out loud, alone. If a line feels performative instead of true, rewrite it. This letter is for your marriage, not for effect.

What I have noticed about us this month

Not a list of problems – just what is actually different, or actually still true.

Starter: "I noticed that when we _____, something shifted..."

What I appreciate in you that I do not say enough

Specific beats general. "You called your mom back even though you were exhausted, and I noticed."

What I am choosing, starting today

Not a resolution to be perfect – a specific, honest choice about how you want to show up.

What I promise for the next season

Smaller and more concrete beats grand and vague.
